Mountain Lakes Medical Center Announces PHASE ONE of Rabun County's NEW Medical Complex To Begin Immediately

September 2, 2015

Clayton, GA - Dr. Joe Forese, CEO of Mountain Lakes Medical Center, announced that Phase One of construction and the implementation of a strategic site plan for a new hospital will begin immediately. The hospital campus will be built on a 30 acre site located off Highway 441 near Mountain City Road.

"On behalf of the governing board and the employees of MLMC, we are pleased Phase One of the new campus has begun," remarked Dr. Forese. He went on to say – "It has taken the efforts of many individuals and groups to reach this point, including but not limited to, community leaders, government officials, members of the community and dedicated employees. My thanks go out to all of you for your hard work and dedication."

"We look forward to sharing the renderings, master site plans and additional information for the hospital campus with the community as the project develops," commented Dr. Forese. "We are excited to begin this new chapter. However, I want to assure the residents of our community that Mountain Lakes Medical Center will continue to provide a full range of medical services at our current location during the construction period." For additional information on the construction and future plans of Rabun County's new hospital, please call 706-782-0400.
